Governor Richardson Urges Coolidge Support

LARGE VOTE IS ASKED; TELLS OF PRINCIPLES

Contest Between Those Who Stand for Constitution and Those Against, He Says
ASKS LEAD FOR EXECUTIVE
Says Vote Should be Cast Against
Those Who Would Tear
Up Liberty

(By Universal Service)
SACRAMENTO, Oct. 24.—Asserting that "the vital principles of our nation are at stake" in the coming Presidential election, Governor Friend W. Richardson today issued a formal statement urging all Californians to go to the polls November 4, so that Calvin Coolidge may secure a majority in this State.
The Governor's statement follows: "The coming election is not a contest between men who seek the Presidency; it is not a contest between political parties for power and patronage. The contest is a week from Tuesday is a contest in which the vital principles of our nation are at stake. It is a contest between those who stand for our Constitution and the best traditions of our country and those who would tear up the very foundations of our temple of liberty. This is a government, as Lincoln said, of the people, for the people and by the people. It is a government of checks and balances. It is a government with a Constitution designed to protect the minority and insure justice to all.
"The wisest part of our government is that giving the Supreme Court of the United States power to determine the constitutionality of the legislative acts. There must be an umpire or similar official in every game. If the bleachers could overrule the umpire, then anarchy would reign—then mob rule would supersede the rules of the game."

Jefferies gave a brief talk, saying in part:
Our pilgrimage across thirteen States has been one triumphal procession. More than a million and a half people have heard what we have to say about re-electing Coolidge. On the prairies, in populous cities and in the snowy regions of the Rockies we have found enthusiasm and a belief in the ultimate victory of the Republican party.

PROCLAMATION WILL END WAR ABOUT PEKING

Mandate Ready for Signature of President Tsao Kun,
Report Says
GENERALS ARE WILLING
Ukase Declares Fights Are "Ruining China"; Appeal
For Peace

(By Universal Service)
PEKING, Oct. 24.—A mandate ordering the stopping of the war between the Central Chinese government and Chang Tso-lin was ready tonight for President Tsao Kun's signature.
Wu Pei-fu, at the battle front answering General Fong Yuh Siang's proclamation calling for cessation of the war, declared that he doubted the authenticity of the telegram, but added if it were true he was willing to come to Peking and talk peace.
The proclamation declared war are "ruining China" and appealed to the people to preserve peace and protect foreigners.
Meanwhile Fong's troops are garrisoning Peking, and it is believed his attitude will result in the overthrow of Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu, who, cut off from his capital, is now fighting a lone battle against the forces of Chang Tso-lin.

Shriners Plan Trip Through South Seas

The plans for the winter cruise of the South Seas, New Zealand and Australia, which is being arranged by Aahmes Temple of Oakland, are progressing in splendid fashion according to the committee in charge which plans to take a party of Shriners and their friends on a thirteen thousand mile tour leaving in January.
The itinerary calls for the party to leave San Francisco on the Wilhelmina, January 11, stopping at Honolulu for two days where elaborate arrangements for sightseeing and entertainment are being worked out. Leaving Honolulu the party which will number fifty people, will go to Suva, the capital of the Fiji Islands, where they will see something of the bushy headed natives of this group only a few years removed from cannibalism, but who are now peaceful and kindly disposed.

The next stop will be at New Zealand, a country that is considered one of the most delightful in the world excelling every other part of the globe in scenic grandeur. A total of seventeen days will be spent in New Zealand during which time the numerous attractions of the Dominion will be visited including the world-famous Thermal Region, the Waitomo Caves and the Lovely Wanganui river.
From New Zealand the party proceeds to Sydney, Australia, a week being given to this country including a trip to Melbourne and also to the Blue mountains. On the return trip Tahiti will be visited. It is planned to make the 66 days of the cruise, one continuous round of pleasure for the Shriners and besides the unusual entertainment in the countries visited, there will be special features on board ship. Already over thirty have signed up and it is expected that the party will soon be fully booked. The arrangements are in the hands of Potentate Franklin P. Haley and a live com-

TREASURY OFFICIALS NEAR PANIC

Unable to Decide Whether to Take Action Against Newspapers or Not

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Officials of the Treasury Department were in a state of approaching panic today, upon discovering that the official order issued yesterday, making the complete list of income tax returns available for public inspection, had resulted in the wholesale publication of these lists in newspapers all over the country.
Most of the newspapers that printed this information about the nation's capitalists, did so after the Treasury had sent a warning last night, saying that the law which provided for public inspection of income tax returns, made publication of this matter a penal offense.
And while the Treasury authorities are still hedging nervously, and refusing to take a definite stand on the question of the press, on the advice of counsel, continues to carry lists of the big taxpayers, with the amounts of their returns.
Secretary Mellon, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair, and other officials of the department, steadfastly refused to say whether the department would instigate any action against the newspapers, or whether they considered the publication of the returns illegal.

Layne Hurls Statements at Director; Rutter

Controversy Over Significance
Of Raid on Corina
Club

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 24.—A three-cornered battle with verbal ammunition was fought today by Police Captain Arthur Layne, District Attorney Matthew C. Brady and Prohibition Director Samuel F. Rutter with the booze graft scandal as the casus belli.
When the smoke of combat had cleared the strategic situation was as follows:
1. Layne, intrenched in the Central station, shot at statements at both Rutter and District Attorney Brady. He accused Brady of "enthusiastically associating with known bootleggers," and then charged that Rutter's men protected known bootleg dives.
2. Rapid fire retorts from Brady in which he charges Layne with keeping bad company and further asserts that Layne has never shown any enthusiasm in enforcing the prohibition law.
3. Prohibition Director Rutter, standing his ground, praising the rank and file of the police department and making pointed references to the alleged failure of Layne to co-operate with the prohibition agents in cleaning out bootleggers.
The chief controversy between Layne and Rutter was over whether or not there was any particular significance to the raid made upon the Corina Club, formerly known as the "Fals" Club" on Friday afternoon.

Coolidge Addresses Largest Audience of Any President

The largest audience ever to be addressed by a President of the United States, estimated at 25,000,000 people was spoken to by the nation's chief executive when he came on the air at 6:30 Thursday evening, through 22 principal broadcasting stations located in practically every section of the country. President Coolidge's speech was directed to members of the United States Chamber of Commerce, under the auspices of which the broadcasting program was held.

According to Manager G. R. Calvert of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, in this district, the long distance telephone lines of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and its associated companies made possible the broadcasting of the President's voice over the entire nation simultaneously. A direct wire leading from the White House carried the President's voice to the long distance telephone lines leading to broadcasting stations far and near, which amplified the voice vibrations received and sent them out through the air by means of their powerful equipment.

THE CAMPAIGN FUNDS

They tell the tale of nearly every saloon in the west—that is they used to—of the celebrant who offered successively to lick any man in the room, the village, the county and the state. His swift and total defeat, it is said, was instantly attributed by the fallen hero of this yarn, not to any inherent lack of ability on his part, but the simple fact that he had taken in too much territory.

If the unprincipled bandiers of political tales who have taken up the chorus of yepping following the fretful charges of La Follette that the republicans were raising a big slush fund, had not taken in too much territory, their scandalous cries might have been believed in many quarters. There are always sieve-brained citizens who are ready—nay, gullibly anxious—to believe anything said of the republican party's campaign funds. But it is really too much to accuse the party of trying to raise $10,000,000—some say it would be $12,000,000 for the purpose of purchasing the election.

These lunatics of the political fringe will say anything in order to attract attention, knowing that it will attract attention to speak in such glorious figures as ten—million—dollars! It has a luscious sound, that sum. We have heard such figures tossed to and fro all during the oil scandal and so forth. Certainly there must be something innately crooked about a million dollars, just as there is something intrinsically funny about such things as wienie-wursts, fried eggs and corned beef and cabbage.

The publicity and the indexing of voters' names both for checking but as big a vote as possible on election day and for distribution of campaign literature, are two of the biggest items in a national committee's expenditures. Other expenses consist of paying the expenses of numerous speakers. These expenses are always borne by the republican committee. During the last wobbly weeks of the Wilson administration, thousands up thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money were spent in printing and distributing—in the government printing office and through the government-paid postal service—enormous quantities of campaign literature. These costs were not included in the democratic national committee's report of campaign expenditures. Oh, no. That would have raised the total a bit, and the democrats are always pleading poverty and virtue that goes with it; they always manage somehow to make it appear that the cost of their campaign has been immensely less than that of the republicans.

Who can remember a campaign when the democrats didn't charge the republicans with being plutocrats and shriek and howl over their own friendship for and common poverty with the dear people?

TIMED

There are two things the people of the country like about Coolidge's part in the Boston police strike—he kept out of it while it was no part of a governor's business, and he promptly got in when it was. The people like an official who does not meddle with other officials' duties but tends strictly to his own.

ENFACEMENT

Candidate Davis insists that the United States shall go into the league and declares that "the United States has no foreign policy" because the people refuse to approve the going in proposal. In other words, we have no policy unless we have a surrender policy.

SCOTCHED

The democratic campaigners have quit talking about the tariff on the things the farmer buys. Farmers began getting copies of the tariff law and found the things they buy on the free list.

AUGURY

The Russian bolsheviks are trying to bore into the American government, using the third party candidates as an instrument. Will you help the boring?

RUINATION

Our foreign trade has been ruined by republican tariffs, declare the democratic and third party campaigners. But our sales to the rest of the world in September, 1924, were $142,000,000 greater than in September 1923. We can stand a lot of that kind of ruin.

CONTRADICTION

9 prominent democratic paper editorially condemns the republican party but admits in its news columns that under republican policies our foreign trade has greatly improved. An editorial that is contradicted in the news column is not worth much.

It seems kind of familiar and home-like to have the disbarment case back in the headlines.

Some folks say Calvin Coolidge is lucky—it appears to us more like the result of being honest all the time.—Tacoma (Wash.) Herald.

Fashion Hints

By MARY MARSHALL

Copyright, 1924, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

A Flower and a Handkerchief To Match—That's What We Choose Nowadays.

SHOULDERS have come into prominence—left shoulders especially. For the woman of fashion now wears her nosegay of artificial flowers where the soldier used to wear his epaulettes. Even real flowers are worn aloft in this manner.

This may be part and parcel of the fashion for keeping the front of bodies as plain and untrimmed as possible. For a time all floral trimming was placed at one hip, and sometimes of course evening frocks still show a handful of flowers with trailing stems at the hip. But usually it is the shoulder. Afternoon frocks and suits have their appropriate flower or bouquet.

The important thing seems to be to select the flower that suits the frock and the occasion. Roses are chosen for evening. The carnation—in any color, even black or green—is the smart favorite at tea time for the time being. When you wear a green carnation on the shoulder of your suit or street frock you carry a matching green georgette handkerchief. With a black carnation: which you wear with a light colored suit, you carry a black and white georgette handkerchief. For day wear these nosegays are not large—the carnations are about normal in size. For evening, however, flowers are enormous—roses six inches across are not unusual.

There is one alternative. If you like you may place your bouquet on your fur collar high up toward one ear. You may effect this fashion with the fur collar of your winter coat or you may wear the flower on a fur animal piece or fur stole.

The woman who likes all sorts of little accessories even selects artificial flowers to wear with her nosegays—always of course with a georgette handkerchief to go with them.

FOR THE FIREPLACE

Do your tones and shovel and poker and brush slip and fall on the hearth? Unless you have some definite way of holding them upright they doubtless do slip and slide. If you want an attractive and effective way of keeping them in place, just buy two little brass holders, one to screw on each side of fireplace like the letter C and the handles of the different firetools. They are kept upright. They are very attractive, too.

LEOPARD SPOTS

You can buy most attractive collar and cuff sets made of satin or of duvetyne marked with leopard spots. They are to be worn on frocks or blouses. You can also buy imitation leopard fur in collars.

WHERE IT STARTED

WIRE

The manufacture of wire started when ancient craftsmen discovered that gold could be beaten into long strips without breaking. For many years this practice continued, till some unknown genius conceived the idea of drawing the metal through various sized holes. Wire-drawing was practiced in Germany as early as the 14th Century. Machine-drawn wire was first produced in England in 1865.

The Husband To Mer

by VIOLET DARE
AUTHOR OF "The Half-Time Wife," "The Luxury of Love" etc.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

PATRICIA CLEVE protests to her husband, ANDREW CLEVE, a young lawyer, that he has made her a tamer of other women's husbands, forcing her to do so much entertaining of his clients that he sacrifices her to his business. She goes on a visit to her sister, CAROL WILLOUGHBY, who, with her husband, KEITH WILLOUGHBY, lives in a country club colony near Chicago. But Keith, like Andrew, seeks to use Patricia's charm as an asset, trying to persuade her to intercede in his behalf with GREGORY HEWITT, a famous financier, whom she has met through Andrew. Patricia is disturbed by Keith's attentions to ISOBEL DRAKE, the country club widow. There were writing materials in the deep pocket of the chair; she drew them out and began a letter to him, telling him of her desire, begging him to think things over once more and see if he didn't believe that life would mean more to her if they lived in more leisurely fashion, instead of being caught up in such a swirl of excitement as that which held them in New York. "You've established yourself in your profession, dearest," she wrote him. "Couldn't we begin now to establish our home, too? I'm sorry that I was so disagreeable to you before I left, but I couldn't help it, somehow; I was so anxious to make you see how I felt! I just want to be with you, Andy; I don't want to have our time so much taken up with other people that we hardly ever see each other alone."

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XXVIII—A SIREN IN ACTION

PATRICIA'S fears were baseless; the telephone call was for Keith, who was still lounging in the dining room. Patricia, pausing on the stairs, wondered if Isobel Drake was at the other end of the wire; certainly it was a woman to whom Keith was speaking so cordially. Patricia went on down the stairs, wondering what she ought to do. How could she open her sister's eyes? Keith was attractive, interesting, far younger for his age than Carol for hers, although she was seven years his junior. "If she'd just wake up!" If she'd just do things with him, instead of settling down this way! Isobel Drake will walk off with Keith, the first thing she knows, and then she'll break her heart and feel that she's a poor, wronged wife, when it's partly her own fault that he and Isobel are together so much!

She went for her walk, taking the path that edged the golf links and the lake, and returned to the house to be given a message by one of the maids.

"It was a gentleman who telephoned," the woman explained. "I couldn't just get his name—the connection was so bad. This is the best I could do with it." Patricia knew without looking at the slip of paper who had phoned. Of course it was Gregory Hewitt—how fortunate that nobody had been home. He had given a phone number and asked that she would call him early in the evening. Fate had played into her hands!

"Oh, could the name have been Hughes?" she asked the maid. "I have friends named Hughes." She did not think it necessary to add that they were traveling abroad. "Oh, yea, miss—madame—it could be Hughes," the maid agreed eagerly.

Patricia smiled as she sauntered out into the garden. It would be easy now to avoid asking Gregory Hewitt out to the house. "I'd be glad to do it if he hadn't gone so far last night," she told herself, making excuses as she remembered how eager Keith was to meet him. "But it just won't do for me to see that man again. He's dangerous! And furthermore, he's married, and so had not realized that so much depended on Gregory Hewitt's building that railroad. Oh, no matter what happened to her, she'd have to telephone him now!"

That swung her back to Andrew. What was he doing today? And how much did he miss her? Was he beginning to realize that they must really have a home, instead of an apartment that was hardly more than a club? She was lonely without him, desperately lonely. She sat down in a long, low wicker chair and looked out over the garden's mass of early autumn color, imagining herself and Andrew in such a home as this one, with a baby in the nursery as adorable as Carol's infant son. If only she and Andy could live in a suburb of New York instead of in the city itself, and have a real home!

There were writing materials in the deep pocket of the chair; she drew them out and began a letter to him, telling him of her desire, begging him to think things over once more and see if he didn't believe that life would mean more to her if they lived in more leisurely fashion, instead of being caught up in such a swirl of excitement as that which held them in New York. "You've established yourself in your profession, dearest," she wrote him. "Couldn't we begin now to establish our home, too? I'm sorry that I was so disagreeable to you before I left, but I couldn't help it, somehow; I was so anxious to make you see how I felt! I just want to be with you, Andy; I don't want to have our time so much taken up with other people that we hardly ever see each other alone."

"Though I'd rather he'd be taken up with his business acquaintances as he is, than with other women."

Patricia followed the path by the lake.

she told herself as she addressed the letter, recalling Keith and his interest in Isobel Drake. As if they were part of the thought, she heard voices suddenly on the other side of the hedge, where the golf links lay, and the voices were Isobel's and Keith's.

"You're the most wonderful man I've ever known," Isobel was saying softly. "Just wonderful. And you've been so kind to lonely little me. I don't see how a man who has such a remarkable grasp of financial matters and is so tremendously successful in business can understand a woman so beautifully the two just don't go together."

Patricia's mouth curled sarcastically. So this was how Isobel did it.

"I don't know about that," Keith answered uneasily. "The business, I mean. I've just walked into a deal—got an option on some land, and bought some mines—and if a certain railroad doesn't go through there, it looks as if I'd lose every cent I've got."

Patricia's heart stood still. She had not realized that so much depended on Gregory Hewitt's building that railroad. Oh, no matter what happened to her, she'd have to telephone him now!

Dick Barthelmess Will Be Featured at Richmond Today

Instead of Richard Barthelmess being a make-believe slayer of a villain, he came near being an actual man killer. Mr. Barthelmess was struggling with the gigantic Ernest Torrence, who plays the villain in the First National attraction "Tol'able David," now playing at the Richmond theatre, in which the young screen artist makes his initial appearance as an independent star.

Mr. Torrence was aiding as best he could to carry out the part which calls for the destruction of the modern Goliath by the young David. Mr. Barthelmess overestimated the strength he was putting into his work and gave Mr. Torrence a shove that sent him prostrate on the floor, the camera grinding away.

Mr. Torrence remained motionless after the scene had been finished and it was discovered he was unconscious. In falling, his head had struck the floor so violently that it had completely knocked him out. A physician was summoned and it was more than a half hour before Mr. Torrence was revived sufficiently to relieve the anxiety of Mr. Barthelmess and the others of the company.

Most Disastrous Flood in 100 Years Inundates

Leningard, Waters Reaching Height of 12 Feet

The greatest flood Russia has experienced within a century made the main thoroughfares of Leningrad impassable and thousands were driven from their homes. The waters flooded the city early in the morning of September 23, and for a time Leningrad was cut off from telegraphic communication with the outside world. Property damaged ran high into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Sale of the Barrett Meat Market, 2029 Barrett avenue, to Rene J. Larkin, for four years manager of the business, was announced yesterday by the owner, John Herman. The new proprietor plans to install an ice plant and to remodel the shop.

Lincoln Carter Had Many Varied Experiences

Bridging the gap between two generations—between the old generation of stage melodrama votaries and the modern generation of motion picture fans—is the amazing performance of Lincoln J. Carter, creator of "The Cyclone Rider," the sensational super-attraction which comes to the Macdonald theatre today.

This "miracle-man" of melodrama, known also as the "father of melodrama" in America, proves that the age of miracles isn't past; that it's really only just beginning in the motion picture world. Incidentally, he has "fathered" thirty-seven huge successes, crowned by "The Cyclone Rider," now a William Fox screen production.

Lincoln J. Carter is a shining example of a "man who came back," of a champion of champions, who retired, beaten, only to stage a brilliant comeback. His own life could easily be melodramatized. Once it rained in Carter's life; and it not only rained but it poured dollars and success. It was this way.

WROTE FIRST PLAY

He was barnstorming with a theatrical company as property boy. For three weeks, there was nothing doing, not a nickel of pay forthcoming. He was just 19 years old. So he wrote his first melodrama, "The Fast Mail," on a washstand under a hanging coal oil lamp in a hall bedroom," as he reminisces. That was in 1890.

Young Carter thought he had a sympathetic reader and critic in his mother, who was then the famous "Martha" in Lewis Morrison's "Faust." Who remembers them now? Such is fame! But millions soon knew and still know Lincoln J. Carter.

He read his maiden effort at melodramatics to his gifted mother, who fell asleep during the second act. A second reading, to Lewis Morrison, evoked mild interest; but young Carter couldn't "kid" Morrison into coming in for a half interest in the production for $700. The first season, "The Fast Mail" cleaned up $125,000.

In the next fifteen years, Carter produced thirty-six big stage successes, each eclipsing its predecessor for novelty and sensational character of stage effects and stage thrills. He tried to get a foothold in the motion picture business.

"I can truthfully say that I saw the motion picture business coming; and I figured that this form of attraction and amusement would be the logical and inevitable successor of the so-called popular-priced theatres," Carter reminisces.

To William Fox belongs the credit for luring Lincoln J. Carter back from the farm to melodrama. Carter memorizes:

"When William Fox came to me with a proposition to produce 'The Fast Mail,' I fell for it. Thus the old Phoenix arises from the ashes, and my early ambition to see my pictures in the best houses is fulfilled.

Buster Keaton Stars in Picture at California

"By far the best comedy he has ever made," is the verdict for Buster Keaton in his latest Metro-Goldwyn picture, "The Navigator," which opened last night at the California theatre.

For unalloyed joy this six-reel comedy surpasses anything that has come along the pike in a long, long time. Imagine Buster as a helpless dummie, being set adrift in a crewless ocean liner and the trouble he gets into, and you have an idea of how funny "The Navigator" is. Kathryn McGuire appears as the heroine and she has never looked nor acted better. The story was written by Jean Havez, Clyde Bruckman and Joseph Mitchell, while the direction was by Donald Crisp and Buster Keaton. The picture was presented by Joseph M. Schenck.

Other features on the same program include "Maud Muller," a romantic drama, featuring Marjorie Daw, "A Sailor's Life," a Hodge Podge, "International News," Larry F. Canelo, at the organ.

PICK U. C. AND STANFORD TO WIN

BOTH HAVE HARD GAMES BUT ARE THOUGHT BEST

Cardinal's Position at Portland Is Declared Ticklish; Bears Must Fight

Both Stanford and California today face what might be called a ticklish situation—only somebody is going to get more hurt than tickled. The Cardinal football team plays the University of Idaho on Multnomah Field, Portland.

The California Bears meet their first Pacific Coast Conference opponent on the Memorial Stadium at Berkeley.

Both Stanford and California could win, but both teams have a fine fight in prospect.

Less it rains in Portland today, Multnomah Field will be robbed of its sawdust covering. And if this heavy, soft footing is supplanted by the hard, somewhat sandy natural soil the entire aspect of the game is liable to be changed.

Idaho has the reputation of possessing a fast, varied attack, with particular emphasis on aerial work. Last season Idaho gave Stanford the fight of the year, and Stanford played the best football of the year to win out. Idaho is out to beat Stanford—Coach Matthews' men have two Conference victories and no defeats to their credit thus far—and so "Pop" Warner is prepared for the worst, while hoping for the best.

Stanford has the power of a couple of football teams on straight football. Stanford's backs—such as Bogue Hey, and the ever to be remembered Nevers—can punch thru most any line, with the assistance accorded them by their own teammates.

Stanford Has Slight Edge Over Idaho

(By Universal Service)
PORTLAND (Ore.), Oct. 24.—Can Idaho beat Stanford?

Fans today found that question the absorbing one at a half-dozen hotel lobbies and clubs as "Pop" Warner's big Cardinal squad and the Vandals from Idaho tuned up their machines on Multnomah field for their game tomorrow afternoon.

A bitter contest, with either team accorded a fine chance, but with Stanford given a slight edge. That was the pre-game opinion of the majority who were willing to venture a guess and risk a few dollars.

For Whom Connie Mack Paid Orioles $106,000

Robert M. ("Lefty") Groves for the last five years has been the Baltimore club's pitching ace. During the 1924 campaign he won 26 games and lost only 6 and he is considered one of the best minor league pitchers brought to the big leagues in recent years. The $106,000 paid for Groves is the second largest price ever paid for a baseball player, the sum being exceeded only by Babe Ruth's purchase price. Connie Mack figures that with the aid of such a pitcher as Groves, the Philadelphia Athletics will be a pennant contender next year.

WANTED — AT THE RECORD-HERALD, CLEAN, SOFT RAGS.

HARMONY IS SHOWN BY EAST BAY DIRECTORS

Practically Every Resolution Is Passed Unanimously by Board

Setting forth that the records of the East Bay Municipal Utilities district show that 188 out of every 190 ordinances and resolutions passed by a unanimous ballot and that on the remaining two proposals there was but one dissenting vote each, the Bartlett campaign committee yesterday challenged the opponents of Director Louis Bartlett to prove that a lack of harmony existed among the members of the board.

Director Louis Bartlett believes that the issue involved in the election of the directors for the water district are so important that the forces back of all of the candidates should deal in facts and not in representations," reads the statement. It has been called to the attention of the members of this committee that the forces opposing Director Bartlett are declaring on the public platform and in public press that Director Bartlett should be defeated because there is a lack of harmony on the board of directors.

"Director Bartlett admits that the records of the Water Utilities district constitute the best evidence as to whether or not discord and lack of harmony prevails among the directors. He would therefore call the attention of his opponents to the fact that during the entire history of the Board of Directors 190 ordinances and resolutions were proposed. Of this number 188 were passed by a unanimous vote. There was but one dissenting vote on the remaining proposals. Director Bartlett challenges his opponents to disprove this statement and failing in this he asks that they admit their mistakes. He makes this as a matter of justice to himself and to the other members of the board. He asks it as a matter of justice also to the tax payers.

"Director Bartlett is known as the father of the municipal water district project by reasons of his many battles in its behalf. With the other members of the board of directors he has assisted in guiding the district through the difficult and pioneer of its existence until today the district is in a position to offer the communities of the East Bay district an abundant supply of pure mountain water at lower rates than the communities are now paying for a quality of water that does not begin to measure up to the standard of that which will be furnished to the district. And in addition to this the district has arranged so that the

PRINCETON TO FACE NOTRE DAME TODAY

Tigers Will Have Difficult Job In Attempt to Stop Saints

(By Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Princeton has a task on hand in the Palmer Stadium on Saturday that is of absorbing interest to students of football from coast to coast and from the great lakes to the gulf. It is the problem of stopping the Notre Dame offense, a brilliant and powerful attack that is put on by fast, heady athletes. Not upon the Tiger offense, but upon the defense against the swirl and thrust of the South Bend assault, will depend the score. If Princeton wins or even loses by a close score, it will be fair notice to Harvard and Yale. If Princeton is swamped it will mean where the key to the defense against Notre Dame lies or that, in possession of the key, the assignment has turned out to be too much for the orange and black personnel.

Before outlining certain of the necessities of defense against Knute Rockne's pupils it is necessary to have a little closer look at his wide running attack. Entirely too much has been made of inferiority in weight both in the South Bend backfield and the line. Standing weight does not count in modern football, only moving weight, and it is possible to translate speed into weight at the instant of impact, which the Indiana team has done. In other words, Rockne has a backfield of entire project can be financed without the addition of one cent of our existing tax rate.

The Bartlett campaign committee would call attention to the fact that the opponents of Director Bartlett have gone on record as declaring that the affairs of the district up to this point have been efficiently administered. He calls attention to the fact that the sole argument advanced against the reelection of Director Bartlett and other directors has been that there has been a lack of harmony on the part of the members of the board.

"He submits that the official records of the board disprove this statement and he asks that a matter of fair play that his opponents admit that they have been misinformed.

"Director Bartlett is waging his campaign for reelection squarely upon the results which have been accomplished by the board of directors of the water district. He is seeking reelection upon his record."

even speed and almost even size. LAFOLLETTE LOSES SECOND PLACE IN POLL

Coolidge Gaining in Straw Vote

Taken by Literary Digest

Davis has almost overtaken La Follette in this week's returns of The Literary Digest's nation-wide presidential poll, which are released today. Besides increasing his popular vote the Democratic candidate has gained ascendancy in Kentucky by the week's tabulations which gives him leadership twelve States.

Coolidge has 1,293,378 votes; Davis 1,877,822 and La Follette, 496,006 of the 2,300,484 ballots now recorded. Davis has brought down La Follette's lead over him from 48,455 last week, to 8,224 this week, a gain of over 40,000. President Coolidge has also increased his percentage of the popular vote a fraction. Senator La Follette's share has declined over one per cent.

Expressed in percentage the last three tabulations of the vote, including the present one, show the standing of the candidates as follows:

4th report, Oct. 11—Total votes—1,451,591.
Coolidge—55.69.
Davis—18.99.
La Follette—24.19.
Minor Candidates—1.13.
5th report Oct. 18—Total vote—1,903,004.

Coolidge—56.03.
Davis—20.19.
La Follette—22.73.
Minor Candidates—1.05.
6th report, Oct. 25—Total vote—2,300,484.

Coolidge—56.22.
Davis—21.20.
La Follette—21.20.
Minor Candidates—1.01.
California and West Virginia continue in the doubtful column.

In Illinois, Coolidge is leading La Follette by 2-1-2 to 1 and Davis by 5 to 1. The President outnumbered Davis nearly 5 to 1 and La Follette over 2 to 1. In Iowa; Davis over 2 to 1 and La Follette more than 5 to 1. In Indiana; Davis nearly 7 to 1 and La Follette almost 2 to 1. In Minnesota; and Davis by 5 to 1, and La Follette by 3 to 1 in New York.

"If this poll is any indication," The Digest states, "President Coolidge is likely to receive considerably more than a sufficient number of votes in the Electoral College to insure his election to succeed himself as the next President of the United States. Kentucky, since last week, has switched from the Republican to the Democratic column, and West Virginia continues to show such an even balance between Davis and Coolidge that it may be put in the doubtful column."

"California, with its present vote of 76,049 for Coolidge to 65,050 for La Follette, may also, to avoid argument, be considered doubtful.

"The Digest figures, of course, appeal very differently, as to their probable accuracy, according as the observers on the Republican, or Democratic, side of the political fence. The Democratic National Campaign committee, we are informed, has gone so far as to send out several dispatches attacking the accuracy of the poll.

"Democratic editors throughout the country argue that it overestimates the Republican strength by anywhere from 10 to 33 1-3 per cent. Few Republican publicists, apparently, believe that it underestimates Republican chances.

"Taking Mr. Coolidge's vote by States and lopping off a third, as a critic suggests, straight down the list a slightly different story is told, in the return of 2,300,000 votes tabulated herewith.

"Coolidge would lose California, Nevada, and South Dakota, to La Follette; Maryland, Missouri, Oklahoma and West Virginia, to Mr. Davis. This would reduce his pres-

Sample ballots containing the matters required to be printed thereon, also a card stating the location of the precinct polling place of each elector, shall be supplied to the electors of said district, but a failure of any elector to receive such sample ballot or card shall not invalidate said election or affect in any manner the legality of any bonds that may be authorized.

Said Board of Directors does hereby submit to the qualified electors of said district a proposition to incur a bonded debt for the purpose of acquiring and conveying the same thereto and for disposing of any surplus water thereof.

Section 3. Any qualified elector of said district may vote at said election for or against the said proposition hereby submitted to vote in favor of, and to authorize the incurring of a bonded debt for the purpose of acquiring and conveying the same thereto and for disposing of any surplus water thereof.

Weakened by Influenza

STOCKTON, CALIF., Sept. 22, 1924.
About three years ago, I was very weak after having suffered from Spanish Influenza, and I contracted a cough which settled on my lungs. This cough persisted and kept gradually growing worse. I tried every remedy recommended to me but nothing seemed to relieve me.

A year ago, I had so severe an attack of coughing that I was compelled to quit work. I had just about believed a cure impossible when friends and relatives urged me to go to FONG WAN, the Herb Specialist. I went. Fong Wan diagnosed my case correctly. I noticed an improvement after the first cup of herb tea, and after three or four weeks, I felt like a new person.

Today, thanks to Fong Wan and his herbs, I can boast of a sound pair of lungs and a good heart.

Takes Jail Rather Than Part From Husband

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 24.—A surprise ending came today in the case of the Campbell Brothers, Edward and Louis—arrested for trying to sell colored water, under a faked government seal, as bonded whisky, when Mrs. Myrtle Campbell, wife of Edward elected to spend six months in the Sacramento county jail rather than be separated from her husband.

The brothers were given terms of six months each by Judge Frank Gafney, and Mrs. Campbell, arrested when the fake whisky deals were discovered was given one hour to leave the city.

"I have no money and no place to go," said Mrs. Campbell. "Rather than be separated from my husband I'll take six months sentence too."

Burbank—Burbank's 1924 street paving program embraces an aggregate of 100 miles. The cost of the improvements under way or about to be undertaken totals $1,884,005, to which should be added $40,000 for work of repaving that is being done by the city itself.

Dirigible ZR-3 Circling Towering Woolworth

Coming out of the early morning haze, the giant airship built at the Zeppelin works for the U. S. Navy received a noisy welcome as it flew low over New York harbor and then over the city. The shrieking of harbor craft whistles was the signal for the city's tens of thousands to crane neck and cheer as it passed over the narrow down-town streets or rushed to house-tops as it continued its course up-town and toward Lakehurst, N. Reconstructin of Hungary Shows Striking Development; Tells Of Advancement Made Since War

By H. WISON HARRIS
(By Universal Service)

LONDON, Oct. 24.—There are two or three ways of forming an estimate about a particular country. You can look at it politically, or geographically, or ethnographically. One method not applied as often as it might be is the chronologic. By that I mean comparing the state of a new country, or a country included for any reason to be undergoing considerable change, as you find it at two or three different dates in a period of years.

Applied to Europe as a whole the method is instructive enough. It is only, I fancy, about four years since Sir Henry Wilson, in a famous speech in the House of Commons, estimated that there were some twenty-three little wars at that time in this smallest of continents. It does not, of course, follow that conditions are all they should be just because actual war is absent, but the comparison is none the less a serious blow to pessimists.

A Striking Discovery

At this particular moment few countries lend themselves better to such comparisons than Hungary. We have heard a good deal of late about the success of the reconstruction of Austria, and quite rightly, but in some ways the resuscitation of Hungary is more striking than that of her neighbor.

Austria, after all, was simply an object of pity to everyone when skilled surgeons from Geneva took her in hand in 1922.

Hungary, on the other hand, was an object much more of suspicion. Since the war she had had a bad history. There had been a Red episode in which the already half-forgotten Bela Kun was the center-piece. Two open attempts at a Hapsburg restoration had been recorded. The activities of a reactionary body called the Society of Awakening Magyars was causing grave disquiet.

In 1921, when Hungary put forward her application for membership of the League of Nations, she had to withdraw it because she was at that moment committing violence against Austria in defiance of treaties.

Distrust of Hungary, moreover, and by no means unjustified distrust, was one of the main causes of the creation of the Little Entente, consisting of Hungary's three neighbors, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Jugoslavia. As things are Hungary is living today in perfectly harmonious relations with these neighbors and is chiefly concerned with making commercial treaties with them—though up till a year ago even Dr. Benes, most progressive and tolerant of all the Little Entente leaders had not found it possible or expedient to meet Count Bethlen, the Hungarian Premier, in a face-to-face interview.

These more or less random references to the recent past illustrate the value of the chronological method. For they show that by comparison with the Hungary of no more than two years ago, the Hungary of today is a transformed country. No miracles have happened. Miracles are not in reality as common as some writers would suggest.

Swift Changes

But a swift and radical change has been accomplished which, while it promises prosperity to Hungary itself, substitutes security and confidence for suspicion or actual danger in a quarter of Europe where international relationships are particularly sensitive.

Things have indeed moved rapidly though a good many obstacles had to be shifted before they could move at all. It is not a year since the League of Nations council gave its Name It and You Can Have It!

Well, folks, we saw it. We didn't know what it was, but we saw it. It had its hair cut man fashion, parted on the side, and all fluffy. We could not make out whether it was a boy camouflaging as girl or a girl trying to impersonate a boy until it came out from behind the counter. It had on skirts, they were short, but skirts nevertheless, and therefore it must have been a girl. It was not hard to look at either. That was up at Woodland the other day, when we were enroute home, and stepped into a restaurant to get a bite to eat. What came we to, when a man is at a loss to tell whether he is addressing a young man or young lady? It sure behooves us to be careful what we say at all times. We did not think such an animal existed, but it does.

Let that be as it may. What we want is JOB PRINTING—MORE JOB PRINTING. And we don't care how the girls dress, nor boys either—just so long as they dress. Remember our Phone number is Rich. 70. Use it, and tell your printing worries to us. We are very sympathetic when it comes to printing troubles. Our prices are right, too. And BUSINESS IS GOOD thank you. But we would like to have it better.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

In reciprocation of the wonderful cures effected through the medium of Dr. Wong Him's herbs and his thorough knowledge of every human ailment, I desire to state briefly the terrible sufferings experienced by myself for other thirty years, thus guiding anyone who may desire relief from attacks of any nature:

I had been afflicted with cancer and Bright's Disease, also catarrh of the head for a period of over thirty years. Learning of the extraordinary cures resulting from the herb treatments of Dr. Wong Him, I decided to seek relief. It possible through this course, being to some extent skeptical, due to failures of other eminent specialists to effect any amount of relief.

A complete treatment of the above herbs have resulted in relieving me entirely of these affliction and my head has been cleared of all traces of catarrh. Pains in back and headaches have ceased and am again able to enjoy perfect health.

The above has been absolutely unsolicited and my only home is that same may prove of great benefit to all sufferers who may read it.

Reconstruction of Hungary Shows Development

after sending an expert delegation to Hungary to examine the situation on the spot, had its report ready in November, and the league council approved it in December. The reparations commission still hung up the matter a little, but in March all the necessary agreements between Hungary and her creditors and her neighbors were signed, and in April the Hungarian Parliament passed all the legislation needed to give the scheme effect.

By June the newly-appointed Commissioner-General, Mr. Jeremiah Smith, of Boston, was at work in Buda-Pesth, and the success of the external loan of 250,000,000 gold crowns was fully guaranteed. American financiers, who at first held aloof, coming in when they saw European lenders were ready to find the money without them.

Hungary Today
Within the last few days I have been hearing something of the condition of Hungary from the high commissioner himself. The country is beyond question moving at a very substantial pace back to economic prosperity. As compared with Austria the political difficulties in getting a reconstruction scheme through were far greater, and foreign governments guaranteed the Hungarian loan as they did the Austrian. On the other hand, Hungary, as a primarily agricultural country, presents no such problem as is furnished by CALKINS.

HUNGARY—Galley 2— the massing of more than a third of Austria's whole population in Vienna.

To trace the details of the success of the reconstruction scheme on its technical side is unnecessary. It is enough to say that at every point things are showing a distinct margin of improvement and seem safe to go on doing so. All that is important; but the real ultimate value of what has been achieved lies less on its economic side than its political. Here more than in most places prosperity means peace.

Count Bethlen's government has shown up admirably throughout the reconstruction negotiations, showing efficiency and courage, as well as good will. The Prime Minister has had trouble with the Nationalists, and there is no doubt that they were a one time a real danger. But their hope was to play on popular discontent, and as money regains a fixed value, so that the crown will buy tomorrow or next week what it buys today, and as the wheels of business revolve again, the popular discontent diminishes.

Though the spark may still be alive there is no loose tinder lying about for it to fire. Count Bethlen himself said at Geneva recently that the action of the League of Nations in Hungary since the war in bringing about a friendly co-operation among all peoples involved in the political life of that part of the world. Seeing what that part of the world is and might be—and was—that is no small service to have rendered to peace.

An especial creation for Eleanor Boardman is this beautiful gown of crepe satin.

Proud...because it was designed for this famous star!

Here's a mighty proud little frock—and well it might be—for it was designed by Peggy Paige of New York and Paris, exclusively for Eleanor Boardman.

You've seen this famous star often on the screen—beautifully and stylishly gowned. And perhaps you've thought—"If I only had her gown!" Well, you can have one of them—for we have the frock pictured here on display in our show-rooms together with others designed especially for Blanche Sweet, Colleen Moore, Carmel Myers, Claire Windsor, and Hope Hampton. And a charming frock it is—fashioned from black satin it presents in its flaring flounces new development of the godet.

When you see it—you'll quickly understand why it was selected for the wardrobe of this famous star.
